From the methodological point of view, the research of the issue in the evaluated monograph is based on theoretical procedures, i.e., mainly on the analysis and synthesis of knowledge published in relevant literary sources, as well as on the knowledge resulting from application practice. The intention of the monograph itself is not to present the views and opinions of the authors as the only correct ones with no better alternative. On the contrary, they state that they present these views and opinions with the best intentions, primarily as stimuli for reflection and as starting points for improving other opinions or developing further discussion in the professional public. According to the criteria of the Scientific Board of the Academy of the Police Force in Bratislava determining the segmentation of outputs, this is a scientific monograph that has objective significance in several countries, not only in the same region, which is why the author dared to classify this output in category A +.

Particular attention is paid to the conceptual definition of domestic violence, its characteristics, and the understanding of this phenomenon in relevant international regulations. The phenomenology of domestic violence in its various manifestations and forms is also studied. A significant part of the monograph also deals with the etiology of this anti-social phenomenon, i.e., the study of exogenous and endogenous conditions creating the preconditions for the emergence and persistence of individual manifestations of domestic violence. Finally, due attention is also paid to the possibilities of effective control of the investigated negative phenomenon, both from the point of view of prevention and criminal and non-criminal repression.
