[MARKO, Vladislav (50%) - RUBISOVÁ, Ivana (50%)] The everyday life of a democratic and legal state is connected with law and legal regulation, the quality of which and the quality of life of society are indisputably linked. Reflecting constitutional principles and democratic values, one of the requirements placed on a substantive legal state, as well as a legitimate claim of members of such a society, is to expect high-quality legal regulation in terms of content and value, following the intention of building legal certainty. The aim of the presented scientific study is precisely to clarify the theoretical and legal foundations of the application and interpretation of law, determining the possibilities of building legal certainty in the decision-making activities of courts. When assessing the "pitfalls" of the interpretative level of law, it is correct to admit the overlap of problems of interpretation of law into the normative level, therefore the scientific study also includes the authors' considerations towards the stage of law creation, the quality of which, reflected in the content and form of the legal norm, also conditions access to justice. The relevance of the question of the quality of current lawmaking is also justified by the hypertrophy of legal norms, while the authors base their considerations on the quality of the lawmaking process on the principle of Roman law "Pessima tempora, plurimae leges". The authors also reflect in this regard on the unmissable phenomenon of judicial lawmaking, when they clarify the approaches of several representatives of legal science to viewing its opportunities and risks, pointing out its necessity in cases of absence of legal regulation, following the necessity of prohibiting the denial of justice. According to the criteria of the Scientific Board of the Academy of the Police Force in Bratislava stipulating the classification of outputs, it is a scientific article that has an objective significance in at least two different states of a certain region, therefore, the author allowed themselves to classify the output in the A- category.

With regard to the inextricable connection between the substantive and procedural regulation of inheritance matters, the authors deal with this area in mutual contexts. Legal obstacles to inheritance capacity (i.e. actions worthy of rejection against the expression of the testator's last will, and the commission of an intentional crime against the testator, his spouse, children or parents) the authors try to include in the paper comprehensively, also taking into account the inspiring legal opinions of both Slovak and Czech highest judicial authorities. According to the criteria of the Scientific Board of the Academy of the Police Force in Bratislava stipulating the classification of outputs, it is a scientific article that has an objective significance in at least two different states of a certain region, therefore, the author allowed themselves to classify the output in the A- category.
