P1   Criminalistics Tactics [text document (print)] [electronic document] [university textbook] / Meteňko, Jozef [Author, 55.4%] ; Barta, Matej [Author, 12%] ; Cehlárik, Ľuboš [Author, 9.9%] ; Zachar Kuchtová, Jana [Author, 22.7%] ; Lisoň, Miroslav [Reviewer] ; Stieranka, Jozef [Reviewer] ; Schmidt, Ján [Reviewer]. – 1st ed. – Bratislava (Slovakia) : Academy of the Police Corps in Bratislava, 2025. – 379 pp. [28.47 author's sheets] [print] [online]. – ISBN 978-80-8293-051-4. – ISBN (electronic) 978-80-8293-052-1.

The textbook provides a synthesis of established and recent knowledge in the field of criminalistics tactics. The introductory section addresses the position, significance, functions, and concept of criminalistics tactics, its development, and its subject matter, object, and system. It subsequently examines physical and memory traces, methods and procedures in criminalistics tactics, criminalistic-tactical examination, and the management, planning, organization, and communication of criminalistic activities. Further chapters cover criminalistic documentation; scene examination and searches; investigative versions (hypotheses); interviewing and on-site verification of statements; confrontation; identification procedures; crime reconstruction; and the search for and securing of persons and objects. The final chapter deals with criminalistics information systems and records. The appendix presents two editions of the European Best Practice Manual for Crime Scene Investigation (2000 and 2012).
Terminological note: „kriminalistická taktika" is most precisely rendered in English as criminalistics tactics (Central/Eastern European forensic tradition). In some international contexts, investigative tactics may be preferred.

V2   KUCHTOVÁ, Jana. The Dissemination of Disinformation Using Artificial Intelligence Tools: Chapter 5 / author Jana Zachar Kuchtová. – In: Disinformation in Central Europe: Development, Legal Frameworks and Security Impacts in the Era of Artificial Intelligence and Digital Technologies / reviewers Pavel Nečas, Vladimír Andrassy, Roman Horák. – České Budějovice: College of European and Regional Studies, 2024. – ISBN 978-80-7556-143-5. – pp. 90–107, chapter.

The chapter addresses the dissemination of disinformation in the digital environment and how new technologies facilitate its creation and spread. It describes the ways false content reaches the public – from bots and automated accounts, through manipulated videos and voice cloning, to orchestrated campaigns on social media. The text highlights the risks posed to trust in the media, privacy, and democratic processes, and underlines the need for regulation, technical solutions, and education to mitigate these threats.

ADF   KUCHTOVÁ, Jana. Selected Information Systems and Communication Technologies Used During the Covid-19 Pandemic. By Jana Kuchtová. In: Police Theory and Practice [print]: Journal of the Police Academy in Bratislava. - ISSN 1335-1370. - Vol. 29, No. 1 (2021), pp. 5-22. [KUCHTOVÁ, Jana (100%)]

The study focuses on presenting selected information and communication technologies applied in the context of the Covid-19 pandemic. Based on scientific findings, the author of the study identifies and evaluates the preference for communication channels used during the period of a nationwide crisis situation. The scientific study stems from addressing the research task No. 161, "Methods of Processing Police-Relevant Information," with the research institution being the Department of Informatics and Management at the Police Academy in Bratislava. According to the criteria of the Scientific Council of the Police Academy in Bratislava, determining the segmentation of outputs as a scientific article, it holds objective significance in multiple states, not just in the same region. Therefore, the author deemed it appropriate to categorize this output as category B.

4.	AED	KUCHTOVA, Jana. Utilization of technical means in forensic training / aut. Jana Kuchtová. In: Advances in Criminalistics 2021 [electronic document]: collection of scientific works and studies / zost. Marián Suja, rest. Matej Barta, rest. Ľuboš Cehlárik, rec. Jan Hejda, rec. Magdalena Ondicova. - Bratislava: Academy of the Police Force in Bratislava, 2021. - ISBN 978-80-8054-928-2. - S. 154-160. Sign .: E-Book 145, F 20754. [KUCHTOVÁ, Jana (100%)] The article focuses on the use of technical means in criminology, which is of justified importance for the sake of efficiency and facilitation of detection, documentation and securing of evidence. There are currently many devices available on the market that can be used in forensic training to enable students to practice the necessary tasks. This includes, for example, virtual reality, which offers the possibility of a large number of variations of the spatial representation of the crime scene, respectively. another area. The aim of the paper is to point out technological innovations that are important for criminology and at the same time to describe the usability of the 360 ° camera in criminology training by students of the Academy of the Police Force in Bratislava. According to the criteria of the Scientific Board of the Academy of the Police Force in Bratislava determining the segmentation of outputs, this is a scientific article that has objective significance in several countries not only in the same region, and therefore the author dared to classify this output in category B.
5.	ACD	HAJDÚKOVÁ, Tatiana - ZACHAR KUCHTOVÁ, Jana. Theoretical Foundations and Application Issues of Survey Questionnaires [print, electronic document]. By Tatiana Hajdúková, by Jana Zachar Kuchtová, reviewed by Michal Greguš, reviewed by Karol Murdza. - 1st ed. - Bratislava: Police Academy in Bratislava, 2023. - 189 p. - ISBN 978-80-8054-988-6. - ISBN 978-80-8054-989-3. Sign.: F 21071, SF 1994, E-Book 171 [HAJDÚKOVÁ, Tatiana (85%) - ZACHAR KUCHTOVÁ, Jana (15%)] In the practical, applied, or empirical part of students' theses, questionnaire surveys often occur relatively frequently. The implementation of a questionnaire survey appears to be relatively simple, quick, and financially undemanding. However, complications with questionable results often arise during its execution, typically due to the researcher's inexperience or lack of knowledge. The popularity of using the questionnaire method and the relatively easy correction of some recurring inappropriate formulations have prompted the authors to develop a textbook. Its goal is to provide the reader with specific procedures and advice regarding the preparation, implementation, and subsequent evaluation of a questionnaire survey. According to the criteria of the Scientific Council of the Police Academy in Bratislava, determining the segmentation of outputs as a chapter summarily in a university textbook published by a domestic publisher, which has objective significance not only for Slovakia but also for the Czech Republic, the author deemed it appropriate to categorize this output as category B.
