1.	AED KULKOVA, Jana Tasks of the Police Force in the field of visa issues = Tasks of the Police Force in the field of visa issues / aut. Jana Kul'ková. In: Application aspects of Act no. 171/1993 Coll. on the Police Force, as amended, and related legal and internal regulations in official activities [print, electronic document]: zborník / zost. Jana Simonova, rec. Miroslav Lison, rec. Antonín Nesvadba. - Bratislava: Akadémia Policajného zboru v Bratislave, 2020. - ISBN 978-80-8054-872-8. - ISBN 978-80-8054-873-5. - S. 112-120. Sign.: F 20411, SF 1948, E-Book 118 [KULKOVA, Jana (100%)] In his scientific work, the author names and characterizes the specific tasks that members of the Police Force perform in the implementation and application of visa issues. Visa issues are addressed by several entities that have precisely defined specific tasks. The author focuses on the Police Force of the Slovak Republic, his tasks vary depending on the level of management, namely on the activities of the Border and Alien Police Directorate and the activities of the Border and Alien Police Office of the Presidium of the Police Force. The author also finds differences in the nature of tasks that are performed at border crossings and outside border crossings. The Border Control Department of the Police Force has an irreplaceable place at border crossings.

	Its performance is associated with a professional assessment of the authenticity of travel documents and visas, the issuance of visas itself to the fulfillment of the requirements of visa practice associated with the protection of the Schengen area. Fulfillment of tasks outside the border crossings is ensured mainly by members of the Police Force included in the Criminalistics and Expertise Institute of the Police Force and the Travel Document Analysis Department of the Border and Alien Police Office of the Presidium of the Police Force. The specificity of the performance of the service of these departments is irreplaceable for other subjects of visa issues. The police force also cooperates in the screening of visa applicants in police databases. The reason is to verify whether the applicants do not pose a threat to the Slovak Republic and other Member States. The author also analyzes the process of issuing visas and other tasks related to visa issues and practice are important not only for Slovakia but for the entire Schengen area in order to catch in time the illegal migration of third-country nationals to European Union countries and protect public order, security and health of the population of the Schengen countries. According to the criteria of the Scientific Board of the Academy of the Police Force in Bratislava determining the segmentation of outputs, this is a published paper at a domestic scientific conference with international participation, which is objectively important in several countries not only in the same region. Therefore, the author allowed himself to classify this output in category A-.

As the world changes dynamically, technologies adapt to set trends. The range of information and communication technologies is increasing and they are becoming more and more accessible to people who integrate them with each other. The author analyzes the main reasons for the use of technology among traffickers. The impact on society can be positive, but also negative. The primary goal of technology is not to commit crime at all. It often helps anti-trafficking professionals to investigate, raise their awareness, provide services to victims and clarify situations on the Internet. However, the ingenuity and creativity of perpetrators in introducing more complex ways of committing crime has no limits. Opportunity to facilitate the path to achieving the perpetrator's stated goal through technology also exists in the case of trafficking in human beings. As a result, it will in many cases be highly dependent on the technical sophistication of the country. According to the criteria of the Scientific Board of the Academy of the Police Force in Bratislava determining the segmentation of outputs, this is a published paper at a domestic scientific conference with international participation, which is objectively important in several countries not only in the same region. The analysis is supplemented by an overview of the criminal prosecution and a clear table of the specific types of penalties imposed and the length of the punishment from 2017 to 2020. Contribution points to the development of the crime of human trafficking also under the influence of the abolition of border control with the entry of the Slovak Republic into the Schengen area in 2007. It highlights documents that have significantly influenced its legal wording. He also points to the change in the legal qualification of trafficking in children to the crime of entrusting a child to another. In the next part of the article he points out the individual legal aspects of the provision of § 179 of the Criminal Code. The article contains features of the factual nature of the crime. The specific concepts of the provision for their correct understanding are explained below. The paper contains an analysis from the basic factual to the qualified factual basis and also explains the specific purposes of the offense. Finally, the custodial sentences and aggravating circumstances that make their imposition by a court are included. According to the criteria of the Scientific Board of the Academy of the Police Force in Bratislava determining the segmentation of outputs, this is a published paper at a domestic scientific conference, which has an objective significance in several countries not only in the same region. It analyzes the most important international documents that protect human rights and describes the control of state duties by UN committees within the international human rights system. It also focuses on the comparison of trafficking in human beings with, in particular, the crime of smuggling, but also crimes against humanity, war crimes and terrorist offenses. These links complicate the classification of a crime. The work of members of the border and foreign police of the Slovak Republic, who protect the external borders of the European Union, plays an important role. The article contains indicators of the perpetrator of trafficking in human beings, which the member should notice when performing the first-line control. This can detect human trafficking and thus prevent the human rights of others from being violated. According to the criteria of the Scientific Board of the Academy of the Police Force in Bratislava determining the segmentation of outputs, this is a published paper at a domestic scientific conference, which has an objective significance in several countries not only in the same region. The main goal of VVÚ is to build, develop and automate a mobile control and testing center of security and diagnostic systems in connection with highly topical and addressed issues of entry and movement of persons in border traffic. When building the center, the use of modern systems and their mutual integration is expected, which will fundamentally contribute to the development of systems, their optimization, automation and subsequently to minimize the physical contact of border participants. 	for protection and diagnostic systems integrating hardware and software tools for data collection and analysis from sensory subsystems and elements and the necessary evaluation logic as well as a modern screening solution with artificial intelligence support ensuring the fastest possible identification of at-risk people crossing the Slovak border. . The collected measurement outputs (responses to specific stimuli depending on the type of proposed sensor systems) are then subjected to local or remote, professional analysis in order to evaluate the degree of safety / risk of the subject for granting, resp. refusal of entry. With the help of such a center, a significant increase in protection when entering the territory of the Slovak Republic is expected, at the same time the obtained results and knowledge show suitable preconditions for overall improvement in security, optimization and efficiency of European border management processes.

Project 101102709 – HSQA" entitled "Hungarian, Slovak development of quality assurance mechanism on border management" as a response to the call of the European Commission "BMVI-2021-AG-TF1-NQAM-FRMM" This project mainly focuses on highly specialized scientific and professional activities based on the framework of employment activities and specialization of the members of the defined research team. These activities include, in particular, the development of a border control quality manual based on scientific and research activities, the development of scientific research and pedagogical activities, innovations in teaching documentation, publishing and publishing activities, coordination of teaching and training activities, teaching and training activities, domestic and foreign business trips, reception of foreign delegations, negotiations and others.
