Given that the investigator's thinking in the logical context creates and shapes his own process of proving, it was necessary to complete the theory of proving detailed questions from the use of logic in proving. Fourteen years of scientific work, analysis and research of investigative practice and the process of proving led the authors to design and create a new concept of the subject of proving theory, which is based on the use of knowledge of applied logic in working with evidence. According to the criteria of the Scientific Board of the Academy of the Police Force in Bratislava stipulating the classification of outputs, the work is a scientific monograph of an objective significance for multiple states not only in one region, therefore, the author allowed herself to classify the output in the A+ category.

The scientific monograph filled a gap in the specialized literature devoted to the issue of expert evidence in criminal proceedings. The publication is intended for the legal, academic and professional public. The authors used the rich knowledge and experience they gained from solving the scientific-research task "Expert in Preparatory Proceedings", from working on professional internships in criminal proceedings, as well as from their extensive publishing activities and created a valuable and rich in information, which is characterized by originality of processing and creative approach. The scientific monograph represents the contribution of the authors to the scientific and professional discussion, because it brings a number of observations and considerations on the topic, offers possible solutions, but is also polemical and critical and does not avoid issues that are considered differently in application practice. The authors do not only describe known facts, but also bring a new perspective on the institute of expert evidence, especially on its practical implementation. In the fourth chapter, the authors analyze and interpret the results of the research task in detail.
