The obtained result of the research activity is a very credible picture of the symptomatic threat to ordinary human communities. The text of the scientific monograph uses partially published materials obtained during the implementation of two research projects, the researchers of which were the Academy of the Police Force in Bratislava. Until the publication of the monograph, the issue of social pathologies occurring in the Slovak Republic was not an area of interest of Polish scientific communities dealing with social prevention, which should be considered in the era of European integration, free movement of persons and intermingling of cultures. A significant shortcoming until

The primary problem of the authors' scientific research was, on the basis of current data obtained from a public opinion survey, which was primarily carried out through a questionnaire to determine the level of legal awareness of the Slovak population. The content of the study presents outputs aimed at presenting only a partial overview of the level of legal awareness of the general public in the field of civil and criminal law. The knowledge base of a specific area is an integral part of the daily existence of an individual living according to the

3.	ADE 2 KOVÁČOVÁ, Lucia - ONDICOVÁ, Magdaléna - BLIŠŤANOVÁ, Monika The Need for Innovation of Security Education in Terms of Spatial Analyses of Crime [print, elektronický dokument] / author Lucia Kováčová, author Magdaléna Ondicová, author Monika Blišťanová. In Slovakia, the spatial investigation of the crime rate is carried out only within the framework of research projects, specifically in the cities of Prešov and Košice. In Košice, crime has been spatially investigated since 2013, and despite the debatable results with the possibility of their practical use, the spatial investigation in Slovakia has not spread to other places. One of the reasons is the need to know geographic information systems and have sufficient knowledge in the basics of working with map outputs. As spatial crime detection is not new on a global scale and the results are actively used in the planning of preventive activities, as well as for the presentation of mapping results on web portals to inform the public, the authors point to one way to fill this gap, namely expanding security education in Slovakia and presentation of the possibilities that the results of analyzes could provide in relation to security practice. According to the criteria of the Scientific Board of the Academy of the Police Force in Bratislava determining the segmentation of outputs, this is a scientific study that was published in a foreign journal and has an objective significance in the field of education and crime prevention in a wider international context, the authors allowed themselves to classify this output in category A.

The outputs consist of an analysis of information obtained from research conducted in the conditions of the Republic of Poland and the Slovak Republic with the participation of respondents, mostly members of the Police Force, and aimed to find out their current knowledge of animal protection laws and "rights" in the conditions of individual states. The study is published abroad as part of a publication entitled "Fight against international crime against the natural environment from the point of view of law enforcement agencies", which represents the output of an international conference and international research. According to the criteria of the Scientific Board of the Academy of the Police Force in Bratislava determining the segmentation of outputs, this is a scientific study that was one of the outputs of an international scientific research task published in a foreign journal and has objective importance in security and legal education and crime prevention in a wider international context, the authors allowed this output to be included in category A

Sign.: kópia [ONDICOVÁ, Magdaléna (100%)] The scientific work in question represents one chapter of a collective monograph published abroad. The author deals with the issue of victims of crime with an emphasis on child victims of selected violent crimes. Among other things, primary attention is paid to some possibilities of assistance provided primarily by the state, while the author emphasizes the forms and scope of assistance to victims in the intentions of the Act on Victims of Crime. It also points to other forms, the implementation of which is in the competence of selected ministries, such as the Ministry of Justice of the Slovak Republic; Ministry of Labor, Social Affairs and Family of the Slovak Republic; Ministry of Education, Science, Research and Sport of the Slovak Republic and Ministry of the Interior of the Slovak Republic. In conclusion, we point out the possibilities of assistance provided by the so-called a third sector represented by selected civic associations. The supranational dimension of this chapter lies in the provision of processed information for the needs of security and legal education not only in the Slovak Republic but also in Ukraine and other countries from which the authors of individual chapters come. According to the criteria of the Scientific Council of the Academy of the Police Force in Bratislava determining the segmentation of outputs, this is a chapter in a collective monograph that was published abroad and has a broader international context, that is why the author dared to classify this output in the A category.
