[KRAJČOVIČ, Michal (34%) - MRVA, Michal (33%) - VACULÍKOVÁ, Nadežda (33%)] The authors focus on the issue of fairness of the current social challenge – execution amnesty, resp. stopping long-term and unsuccessful enforcement proceedings. The authors' reasoning is based on a pluralistic understanding of justice and, within that understanding, focus on the element of merit and the needs. In the light of these considerations, they suggest a possible form of a forthcoming, de facto, amnesty that would required the existence of specific merits of the debtor to stop the enforcement proceedings. At the same time analyze whether the objective pursued could not be achieved by streamlining current insolvency resolution tools debtors who are undoubtedly affected by the forthcoming amnesty, which should be the main concern about streamlining the representation of debtors in debt relief proceedings. According to the criteria of the Scientific Board of the Academy of the Police Force in Bratislava determining the segmentation of outputs for scientific work that can be used to study the issue in other countries and therefore enjoy it the authors allowed this output to be included in category B.

2.	"Precedent and binding nature of court decisions in the conditions of the Slovak Republic," Faculty of Law, Charles University, national, researcher, 2012, VEGA no. 1/1764/12 In the continental legal system, the role of courts is the right to interpret and apply, not to create. However, in the reasoning of decisions, courts often also refer to case law, resp. decisions of fundamental importance, in particular the Constitutional Court. It is up to the courts to decide the same cases in the same way in continental legal culture. The project focuses on selected aspects of court precedent in the Slovak Republic. It contains the opinions of mostly Slovak experts in the field of law on the issue of judicial law-making. Another aspect is the relationship of the Slovak Constitutional Court to the precedent (case law), that is, the understanding of the precedent from the perspective of the Constitutional Court of the Slovak Republic (case law of the Constitutional Court of the Slovak Republic). The most important outputs: AFD Vaculíková, Nadežda [UKOPATS] (100%): Chosen questions of judicial creation of law.
