1.	ADF	KUCHTOVA, Jana. Selected information systems of communication technology used during the Covid-19 pandemic / aut. Jana Kuchtová. In: Police Theory and Practice [print]: magazine of the Academy of the Police Force in Bratislava. - ISSN 1335-1370. - Year. 29, no. 1 (2021), p. 5-22. [KUCHTOVA, Jana (100%)] The study focuses on the presentation of selected information and communication technologies applied in connection with the Covid-19 pandemic. Based on scientific findings, the author of the study identifies and evaluates the preference of communication channels used in the period of a society-wide crisis situation. The scientific study is based on the solution of the scientific research task no. 161 Methods of processing police-relevant information, whose research department is the Department of Informatics and Management of the Academy of the Police Force in Bratislava. According to the criteria of the Scientific Board of the Academy of the Police Force in Bratislava determining the segmentation of outputs, this is a scientific article that has objective significance in several countries not only in the same region, and therefore the author dared to classify this output in category B.
2.	ADF	HAJDÚKOVÁ, Tatiana - KUCHTOVÁ, Jana. Use of information technology in the fight against the Covid-19 / aut pandemic. Tatiana Hajdúková, aut. Jana Kuchtová. In: Police Theory and Practice [print]: magazine of the Academy of the Police Force in Bratislava. - ISSN 1335-1370. - Year. 28, no. 3 (2020), p. 5-26. [HAJDUKOVA, Tatiana (50%) - KUCHTOVA, Jana (50%)] In the study, the authors point out the usability of technologies not only during the normal functioning of the company, but they also have the ability to be significantly helpful in mitigating the course and consequences of the current pandemic - a viral disease known as Covid-19. The choice of topic was influenced by the high societal urgency resulting from the rapid transmission of the disease, the high risk to the population with the worst tragic consequences in life, all in the absence of a specific vaccine or drugs effective enough to combat the viral disease. The seriousness of the new situation quickly led to the realization that it is not just a medical or epidemiological problem, but affects virtually all areas of the company's operations on a global scale. The content of the article highlights the usefulness of technical means not only in the treatment and monitoring of the disease state, but also in many other contexts such as the ability to quickly transmit information over long distances, and thus minimize personal contact. The empirical part of the scientific study analyzes the views of university students on how they perceive the importance and potential of the use of technology in the fight against a new type of virus in times of uncertainty, when there is not yet a sufficiently satisfactory solution to pandemic control. The study is based on the solution of scientific research task no. 245 Modern technologies in committing, detecting, documenting, proving and preventing crime, in ensuring public order and safety, traffic flow and scientific research task no. 161 Methods of processing police-relevant information, both tasks solved at the Academy of the Police Force in Bratislava. According to the criteria of the Scientific Board of the Academy of the Police Force in Bratislava determining the segmentation of outputs, this is a scientific article that has objective significance in several countries not only in the same region, and therefore the author dared to classify this output in category B.

[KUCHTOVÁ, Jana (100%)] The article focuses on the use of technical means in criminology, which is of justified importance for the sake of efficiency and facilitation of detection, documentation and securing of evidence. There are currently many devices available on the market that can be used in forensic training to enable students to practice the necessary tasks. This includes, for example, virtual reality, which offers the possibility of a large number of variations of the spatial representation of the crime scene, respectively. another area. The aim of the paper is to point out technological innovations that are important for criminology and at the same time to describe the usability of the 360 ° camera in criminology training by students of the Academy of the Police Force in Bratislava. According to the criteria of the Scientific Board of the Academy of the Police Force in Bratislava determining the segmentation of outputs, this is a scientific article that has objective significance in several countries not only in the same region, and therefore the author dared to classify this output in category B.

	The aim of the article is to point out the current dangerous trend related to inappropriate and in some cases even criminal behavior of users in the online space. The ever-increasing influence of social networks and the availability of technology means that users have much more accessible access to the Internet, but at the same time without legal awareness that even in the event of inappropriate behavior on the Internet, criminal penalties may be imposed in certain cases. Rapidly spreading hoaxes and misinformation, which pose a security risk when addressing serious issues, are a growing negative phenomenon today. According to the criteria of the Scientific Board of the Academy of the Police Force in Bratislava determining the segmentation of outputs, this is a contribution from a foreign conference, which has an objective significance not only for the Slovak Republic but also the Czech Republic.
